Williams to contest election, hints some voted 'from grave'

BY RICHARD MEEK
Claiming he wants to determine who "voted from their grave," District 4 candidate Thomas Williams is protesting the results of Tuesday's primaries.

Williams said he will go to court on Monday seeking an injunction to halt a scheduled Aug. 29 Democratic runoff between Steve Seymour and Harry Favre. Ramifications of Williams' court battle may stretch into District 5, and breathe new political life into ousted Board of Supervisor President Mike Ladner.

Williams is contesting the results on several fronts, including leveling charges of misconduct against Hancock County Circuit Clerk Pamela Metzler.

As of Tuesday night's primary, Williams appeared headed for a District 4 runoff with Seymour. Seymour outpolled all four Democratic opponents in the race with 466 votes. The primary results showed Williams with 309 votes, Harry Favre 304 and Harold "Willie" Gayney 102.

However, during a count of affidavit ballots Thursday night, Favre picked up seven votes to put him two ahead of Williams and place him in the runoff, seemingly ending Williams' chances.

Ironically, all seven of Favre's additional votes came from the South Bay precinct, which is Williams' political backyard. Favre did not pick up any additional votes from his home precinct, City Hall.

Following Thursday's count is when the controversy erupted. Williams requested a recount of all of the votes on Friday, and when the tabulations were completed, once again, the totals changed.

Favre picked up another three votes in the recount, two from City Hall and one from

P&Z fails to approve B&B

BY MARY G. SEILEY
The developer of a proposed bed and breakfast in Bay St. Louis said he may scrap the project after the Bay Planning and Zoning Commission failed to endorse a zoning exception Thursday. P&Z members were stuck in a two-two tie after a thunderous public hearing on the proposed development on South Beach Boulevard Thursday night at Bay City Hall.

Lot under fire again

BY MARY G. SEILEY
Some downtown citizens upset over construction of a parking lot on Bay St. Louis beachfront urged the city to block finalization of the construction.

Represented by attorney Henry Laird Jr., the group asked the Planning and Zoning Commission to yank the project's construction permit that was issued by the city.

Commissioners seemed surprised at the request, and took the issue under advisement.

At issue is a parking lot at Beach Boulevard and Washington Street, adjacent to the American Legion Pier. It is one of two such lots the county is financing, to accommodate an expected increase of visitors

Where to go?

Some residents of northern county area must send children to Picayune schools

BY TRACI BONNEY
Residents of Hancock County who live outside the city limits should go to school in the Hancock County School District, right?

Not necessarily.

Some residents of the Flat Top community, while living in Hancock County, also live in the Picayune city school district, thanks to some horse-trading done in the 1950s.

Because of this, their children go to the Picayune schools.

The parents want to change that.

Glenda Wilson and three other parents appeared at the Hancock County School Board meeting Monday to request that the board waive tuition for their children to attend Hancock County schools this year, and that the board initiate action to move the area where they live back into the Hancock County School District.

Wilson presented a petition with 30 names to the board, saying the petition requested the tuition waiver for those students living in the Flat Top area who want to attend Hancock schools. She explained that for many families the tuition of $300 per child was too much to afford.

"We have several families who have three children," she said, indicating to one of the parents present. "That's $900 they'd have to pay. Another parent, who's not here tonight, also has three children, and she just had surgery, so there's no way she could afford to pay $900, but she wants her kids to come here to school. This presents a hardship for many of us."

The school board trustees and attorney Steve Benvenuti all assured the parents that the school board does want those residents to be within the Hancock district. Moreover, Benvenuti added, there are some Sixteenth Section lands that were given to the Picayune district, which the Hancock district would like to regain.

County refuses to pass waste disposal law

BY MARY G. SEILEY
Hancock County officials refused to budge Friday when they were urged to pass a law immediately circumventing installation of unsanitary waste disposal systems.

The Board of Supervisors placed the issue "under advisement," despite strong-worded warnings from John Scaife, attorney for the county Planning Commission.

"If something's not done, we're going to have five, 10, 15 new systems pumping raw sewage into our streams and bayous" every month, said Scaife.

In meetings Thursday afternoon and Friday morning, Scaife challenged the board's position that the county's hands are tied legally. "The board apparently thinks there's nothing they can do.

Gulfpex stamp exhibit

The Gulf Coast Stamp Club hosts the 22nd annual Gulfpex '95 Stamp Show and Exhibit at the Airport Holiday Inn, 9415 Hwy. 49, Gulfport on Labor Day weekend, Sept. 2-3.

The show theme commemorates the 50th anniversary of the end of WW II and the veterans who fought the war.

The United States Postal Service will have a sub-station with a variety of postage stamps, postal stationery and other products for sale. All mail processed at the show Saturday and Sunday will be cancelled with the Gulfpex station anniversary date stamp.

Twelve dealers from Florida to Texas will have worldwide stamps, postal history, Confederate artifacts and postcards. A souvenir printed show envelope will be available with an artistic design, by Marty Brazil, of the mushroom cloud bomb blast that ended the war. A special show cancellation depicting the B29 Enola Gay in flight will be used at the show.

An award-winning show program, with articles on the anniversary, stamp collecting and much more, will be presented to all who visit the show.

The special show covers can be obtained at the exhibit or by mail from John Brauchle, 258 Porter Ave., Biloxi, MS 39530-2914, with a self-addressed stamped #10 envelope.

Cost of the covers are $1.25 each, both days $2.50 or a complete set of ten covers with the WW II stamps for $10.

The show hours are 9-5 on Saturday and 9-4 on Sunday. Admission and parking are free.

In Memoriam
In Loving Memory of ROLAND TAILLAC
As the dawn broke this morn
We remember you ever so much
Today is your Birthday
Though you're not here with us
We would love to be near you
We would kiss and hug your face
We would sing a song of happiness
As the joy would fill this place
If only God had told us
If we only had a clue
That your life here would soon end
We had planned so much to do
Just so you know
As you sit near his Throne
This day is still a part of us
Even though you are gone
Happy Birthday
Love, Louise and Family
Dear Grandpa,
I woke up this morning
A piece filled my heart
I knew this day was special
Even though we are apart
No cake, no candles, no gifts to buy for you
No way to celebrate your birthday
The way we used to do
All that we have left
Are memories of your laughter
and your smile
And a photo we can gaze at
As we sit and talk a while
This day you are in Heaven
Your new place to call home
We are here without you
Feeling empty and alone
So let me tell Grandpa
Today will always be
A day that I remember
How "Special" you are to me
Happy Birthday
Love, Bobby

Life's advantages begin early for our babies. As soon as they are born, our babies receive a silver spoon* as a gift.

This is merely one of many sterling opportunities at NorthShore Regional Medical Center. Expectant parents are given a beeper to use before delivery, and are encouraged to take advantage of free classes, programs and tours. Also, our moms-to-be can use the individualized Pregnagym™ program at The Health Center at NorthShore Regional for no extra charge.

Baby goes home in style with an infant car seat and baby monitor. Plus, our babies are eligible for the Born Winner prize drawing where a $1,000 U.S. Savings Bond, dedicated to the child's education, is given away each month.

And, don't forget the best reason to preregister—mothers in labor are escorted directly to their deluxe labor/delivery/recovery room. Since all paperwork has been completed there's no need to stop at the admit desk.

To qualify, mothers-to-be must be pre-registered with The Women's Center at NorthShore Regional and a patient of an obstetrician on the hospital's medical staff. To learn more about preregistration, call The Women's Center today, (504) 646-5666.

Advertising, budget lights fuse for Waveland Aldermen dispute

BY RICHARD MEEK
A discussion over the possibility of placing an advertisement in the upcoming Hancock County Chamber of Commerce Quality of Life book lit the fuse for another controversy during a Waveland Board of Aldermen workshop Wednesday at Waveland City Hall.

Alderman Jay Fleuriet balked when city official Mike Cuevas recommended the city purchase a full-page ad in the magazine, at a cost of $1,300. Cuevas told the board that if members decided to take a "business card size ad, then all you're telling people is that you don't think much of yourself."

She added that the city should promote itself because family-owned businesses are "alive and well" in Waveland, as is the business climate, and "not a lot of cities can say that."

Fleuriet vehemently objected.

"Here's my problem," he said.

"I recently talked to two people who want to leave Waveland because we can't take care of our roads and ditches. We need to take care of our own people. If we can nurture these people back, they will be our biggest public relations people."

"I have no problems with public relations," he added. "If we can do a good job of providing the little things that a city provides, then public relations will pick up."

To which mayor John Mason replied, "What do you think we are going through these (recent) budget hearings for? We are going to put money into our streets."

Fleuriet suggested the city give money to Waveland businesses running ads in the book to put the Waveland city logo in their ad. However, city attorneys quickly explained the city cannot give "co-op" money to businesses.

Alderman Al Kingston said the city "needs to have more advertising to explain what Waveland has to offer."

He suggested, and the board agreed, to purchase the ad contingent on what Cuevas "comes up with. That will determine whether we do it or not."

Fleuriet also seized the opportunity to again challenge budget procedures, which he has done several times in the past month. He said he doesn't understand the budget.

"I want to know what my liabilities are," he said.

Under state law, city officials and aldermen may be held liable if expenditures exceed 10 percent of the budget. The usual procedure is for a governing body to amend the budget to reflect the overtures.

Typically, this is done at the end of the fiscal year, sometimes more frequent. However, Fleuriet told his fellow aldermen his "municipal advisor told me we only have 30 days to amend the budget."

City attorneys said that was inaccurate.

City clerk Debbie Conravey told Fleuriet that if he wants to know if something is out of line, "I will tell you."

Kingston added the city pays the accounting firm of Moore and Powell to "keep us in line with the state."

In another matter, the city will soon be using the collection agency of G.L. Sanders to help collect delinquent tax accounts. City attorney Lucien Gex said the contract calls for the agency to keep one-third of what is collected.

"Whatever (the agency) comes up with, is two-thirds to the good for us," Gex said.

He said most delinquent accounts are not worth taking to court.

"If you do win, most of those people don't have jobs or property," he said.

Bay St. Louis accepts bid

BY MARY G. SEILEY
City officials accepted a $771,585 bid Wednesday for restoration of the old Bay St. Louis depot, and agreed to drop an unpopular bus line.

City Council also rejected a proposed bed and breakfast establishment on Washington Street, and set a special meeting to act on a controversial subdivision request off Dunbar Avenue.

Action on the depot bid leaves that project on the starting line after years of planning and design. Financed primarily with a federal transportation grant, the project is expected to return the 1928 two-story depot on Railroad Avenue to its former glory.

ridership drops to less than 100 a month.

Still, council agreed to wait until Sept. 30 to drop the line. That will give students time to find alternative transportation, officials said. They also noted the city has paid for the service a month in advance.

The subdivision matter concerns plans to construct 12 duplexes on a vacant lot next to Genin Street. Citizens of the neighborhood have protested that drainage problems in the area will be compounded by the additional construction.

Developer Ronnie Artigues, however, insisted Wednesday he's had the drainage aspect of the project studied thoroughly by an engineer. "We know it's going to work," said Artigues of the proposed drainage plan.

Council members weren't convinced of that, however, and insisted more discussion needs to take place before they agree to the subdivision.

Artigues appeared angered at that, and said if the matter were tabled by council, he'd proceed with an apartment complex rather than duplexes on the property. He said he and the property owner had lessened the density of development, from 40 units to 24, by deciding to proceed with duplexes rather than apartments.

Council President Tad Black said a city ordinance requires that a developer provide proper drainage on-site for any type of development -- and deal with off-site drainage resulting from the project as well.

Artigues expressed frustration in getting city engineering officials to go over his plans, saying they had not been readily available to deal with his project. "How long does a developer have to wait for the city to take action?" he asked.

At the suggestion of council member James Rutherford, council agreed to have a special meeting on the matter Tuesday and "get it resolved once and for all."

Officials also hope the restoration will spark rejuvenation of businesses in the central section of the old town.

Action on the bus service -- Route 52 -- came on the recommendation of Coast Transit Authority officials who said it isn't practical to continue the service.

The line, connecting Bay St. Louis and Pass Christian, is used primarily by students who attend St. Stanislaus, officials said. In the summer months, Council members weren't convinced of that, however, and insisted more discussion needs to take place before they agree to the subdivision.

Artigues appeared angered at that, and said if the matter were tabled by council, he'd proceed with an apartment complex rather than duplexes on the property. He said he and the property owner had lessened the density of development, from 40 units to 24, by deciding Meanwhile, plans for a bed and breakfast at 115 Washington Street were rejected by council, because the proposed proprietor said he cannot provide enough off-street parking on the land.

Mike Zuppardo said his certified public accountant now believes the establishment must have six guest rooms to be profitable, and that would require more parking than the property can accommodate.

Black made the motion to reject Zuppardo's application for a special exception, based on the parking problem.

In other action, council agreed to meet with a consultant Aug. 21 for a briefing on noise control equipment and officer training. City officials have been considering buying noise meters, and outlawing bothersome levels of noise.

Officials say, however, such a law must be enforced by using calibrated noise detection devices, and having personnel skilled in the instruments' use.

Circuit Court judge rules against SCI

BY MARY G. SEILEY
A circuit court judge has ruled against the state's request to involve seven utility companies in a battle over delays in the construction of Highway 603.

Judge John Whitfield issued the order in the case of SCI, Inc., the contractor who's suing state highway officials for $3 million.

Whitfield said in his order that Mississippi Rules of Civil Procedure require a "speedy, and inexpensive determination" civil cases. The state Transportation Commission "has taken no steps whatsoever to expeditiously resolve this action," the judge ruled.

Adding the utilities as defendants in the case, he said, would be "inconsistent" with the requirement for a "speedy" and "inexpensive" resolution of the case.

SCI claims in its breach of contract suit that the state's failure to make sure utility lines and pipes were removed from the Highway 603 pathway caused expensive delays in the four-laning project, with SCI piling up $3 million in extra costs.

State officials don't admit blame in the utility issue, but wanted the companies added to the lawsuit just in case SCI is awarded damages. Any judgment in SCI's favor, the state says, should be paid by the utility owners, not the state.

In another recent ruling, Whitfield turned down SCI's motion for partial summary judgment. The judge said genuine issues of material fact exist in the case, precluding a summary judgment.

Whitfield has set the case for trial Nov. 27.

Bay P&Z quashes economic growth

Thursday night's meeting of the Bay St. Louis Planning & Zoning Commission confirmed what had been pretty obvious to observers over the past year: innocent, well-meaning and articulate citizens are in danger when trying to do anything different or beneficial in the Bay.

The commission, most often rubber stamped by City Council, has played host time after time to a roomful of shouting, rude, irrational and uncompromising local residents. The faces are the same. The objections are the same. Their agendas often do not stretch much beyond their front doors. The result is the same.

Here, we have the local well-to-do insistent that creating a bed and breakfast out of a neglected, dilapidated mansion is an awful thing. That's allowing what they call "creeping commercialism" to invade South Beach Boulevard, of all places indeed. Last year, that same ugly "creeping commercialism" rose up and tried to sneak into North Beach Boulevard. Indeed.

The building in question was for many years operated as a camp for disadvantaged youth from New Orleans.

Other communities, with a stock of historical treasures far more extensive than what's left in Bay St. Louis, have realized, to their credit, that bed and breakfast establishments are a very viable way of saving historic homes from ruin. This conversion of property does not leave a town with a rinky-dink, neon-lit motel in the middle of residential splendor. What it does do, however, is open a few rooms in a historic home to a few guests who pay big bucks for the privilege.

Those guests, must we be reminded, are predominantly well-heeled, articulate folks who prefer the elegance that a bed and breakfast offers. They are not known to swing from the chandeliers or molest little innocent local youths.

Still, the opposition was vehement Thursday night that harm was looming over beautiful Bay St. Louis. Since we've heard this same prose before from these same people, it's not surprising that they would stick to their guns and try to shoot down a perfectly fine proposal. Just like before.

But what is surprising and most disheartening is the manner in which the good citizens of the area treated a perfectly innocent, well-meaning, intelligent, enthusiastic couple who want to give this project their all and make it work. They oppose commercialization of residential neighborhoods, too. They favor opening their doors to a few guests, and they expect that many of those guests will fall in love with Bay St. Louis.

These visitors won't, if they see the rudeness and ill-tempered manner in which the prospective B&B owners were treated. They won't, if they figure we've got a Planning and Zoning Commission that can't balance the overall public good with the unfounded fears of a few. They won't, if City Council continues to rubber stamp bad decisions from the Planning and Zoning Commission.

City officials appear content to let all of their financial eggs lay in the Casino Magic basket, rather than attempt to develop more mainstream economic development. Stennis International Airport tried this approach, and the results were disastrous.

The Bay Council has an opportunity to do the right thing and approve the exception request so the project can begin. A nod of approval is what's best for the majority of Bay citizens, not just a chosen few.

Granted, a vote for the exception would mean bumping heads against the P&Z, but isn't economic development more important than bruised egos?

Cochran introduces new agriculture bill

Senator Thad Cochran has introduced the Agricultural Competitiveness Act of 1995.

The legislation is designed to be the centerpiece of the 1995 Farm Bill. It has three key objectives:

1. provide greater planting and farm management flexibility;
2. enable U.S. agriculture to remain competitive in world markets; and
3. reduce the federal budget deficit.

The bill provides commodity price support for the nation's major row crops, including wheat, feed grains, cotton, rice, oil seeds, peanuts and sugar.

"Agriculture is the number one industry in the country," said Cochran. "This legislation will help keep the sector of our economy strong and do so with a fiscally responsible budget."

By expanding cropping flexibility from 25 to 100 percent, the bill allows farmers to respond to changing market conditions.

The Agriculture Competitiveness Act provides that non-paid base acres be increased from 15 to 25 percent, which will significantly reduce expenditures over the next seven years.

The bill reforms the current peanut program by reducing taxpayer costs. The sugar program, which already operates on a no cost basis, is reformed and extended.

It is expected that the Senate Agriculture Committee will act on the bill in September.

"CUEVAS' QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Hello. It's me. You have heard of the saying of someone being a real "sick puppy." That was me — for several weeks.

As you read this column today, I have reached a three-week mark as a patient in Hancock Medical Center. I had to undergo emergency abdominal surgery July 23 and a subsequent problem necessitated a second surgery on the day of Hurricane Erin's arrival on the Coast.

Jane and I are grateful for the many prayers, cards, flowers and inquiries during this great ordeal. It is so great to have so many sincere friends within our community. I even received a telephone call this past Thursday from my cousin Irv Cuevas in Los Angeles, Calif., who had been concerned because this column had not resumed.

By the way, since I began writing this column in 1976, this is the first time for me to miss an issue for any reason. I have been through surgeries, vacations, etc., but always managed to write my column. So you can see, I have been a real "sick puppy."

I am grateful to the doctors, nurses and entire staff of Hancock Medical Center for their efforts to make this ordeal as comfortable as possible. They have all been great to me.

I never thought I could watch an entire baseball game, football game, "Three's Company," "Gomer Pyle," "The Andy Griffith Show," cartoons, the O. J. Simpson and Waco cases and be grateful to watch them to help pass the time.

I have been dreaming of food, the preparation of food and eating food, and for 19 days all I was able to eat was crushed ice. Hopefully I am now on my way to recovery, as the tube from my stomach has been removed and I have now graduated from clear liquids to real food. I never thought I would enjoy eating as much as I have over the past few days. All I could think about was a one-pound Porterhouse steak and a big baked potato in the beginning. Toward the end, I would have settled for just two small French fries.

A lot of interesting things have been happening since I have been in the hospital, such as the election and other things of interest in our community. I have so much to catch up on and write about.

Congratulations to all the candidates in last Tuesday's primary election... the winners as well as the losers. Our elections are important for us to continue to be the great nation that we are.

I cannot say enough about the staff of the Sea Coast Echo, who have had to double and triple up to carry the load during my absence. Right now we are playing it one day at a time. As to how much longer I will be in the hospital, I do not know. Hopefully, I will be out soon. Once again, thanks to each and every one of you.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

What about Pearl Harbor?

Dear Editor:

I've just about heard enough concerning our dropping the atomic bomb on Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

Truman ordered the bombs to be dropped to end the war. If we had invaded the Japanese Islands, our casualties would probably have been a million.

The Japanese deserved what they got. They were the most barbaric people we ever fought. They inflicted the most cruel torture on their prisoners, many who were Americans.

These liberal historians are constantly waging a "hate America" campaign. They've even written that the reason Truman ordered the bomb dropped was to show Joseph Stalin what would happen if he got any thoughts about invading the U.S.A. Truman only wanted to end the war.

The Japanese were like a herd of cattle. Their leaders would tell them that America was the evil empire, and not being able to think for themselves, they believed it. They would fanatically go out and dive their planes into our ships killing themselves. They would booby trap themselves.

I've never heard anything about how wrong the Japanese were for what they did at Pearl Harbor.

Sincerely,
Art Elkins

RV tag prices unfair

To the Editor:

People of Mississippi recognize my plea to the Attorney General.

We, the recreational vehicles travel trailer owners, are being discriminated against. Why?

The legislators never gave us a tax reduction like they did on automobiles. Ask yourself why. Mr. Attorney General, why? I want to know.

I purchased a license plate for my RVTT and paid registration fee every year. According to law, all vehicles that travel the city, county and state highways must have a license plate. We pay ad valorem tax the same as automobiles.

Some of our state representatives weren't aware we were being denied a tax reduction. Why vote when our representatives never knew owners of RVTTs were denied a tax reduction.

I went to the Wildlife and Fisheries' monthly meeting to see the park commissioner on why we pay more in the state park than any others, when common sense will tell you a state park is a state park. All recreational parks were built by taxes, cared for by taxes, the same as the Capitol, the Governor's Mansion, state buildings, state employees, etc.

Why should a resident pay the same fee (tax) as a non-resident. The fishing and hunting licenses are far less for residents than the non-resident licenses.

Are we second-class citizens because we purchase a RVTT? Isn't it enough we pay 7 percent sales tax? The records are replete with examples of regulatory abuse on rules that defy common sense.

There isn't anything wrong with our state representatives regulating legitimate functions of government — note I stated legitimate rules, not interpretation of the rules.

Sincerely yours,
Arthur Leineweber

THE PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

A Weekly Editorial
From Mississippi Economic Council

Tear down barriers to voter indifference

Here is a paradox that should concern more than students of history and democracy.

As state and local government has shown explosive growth in size and influence over citizens' daily lives, there has been a drastic reduction in the percentage of citizens who seek to influence government through the ballot box.

Since 1971, when more than 60 percent of voting-age Mississippians went to the polls, participation has steadily decreased. A new low was reached this year in the Aug. 8 party primaries when approximately 33 percent of the voting-age population went to the polls.

Despite theories to explain this year's voter apathy (lack of hotly contested local and statewide contests), there is an explanation that cuts across all boundaries — voter indifference to a government seen as impotent and ineffective.

Back as far as any living Mississippian can remember, campaign "issues" have been remarkably similar — but the progress made on the "issues" appears trivial when compared with campaign promises. The difficulty voters encounter is holding state and local officials accountable for what is or is not accomplished.

That frustration develops into a feeling that no significant progress will be made, regardless of who holds elective office.

An answer to restoring voter confidence in government is to remove barriers to holding officials accountable, according to the Mississippi Economic Council.

Strengthening the executive branch of state government would make it easier for any governor to fulfill campaign promises with concrete action for the voters to evaluate at the next election.

And at the local level, county voters have no alternatives to the structure of an inefficient county government structure mandated in the 1890 Constitution.

Such barriers will continue to hobble voter confidence in government. They should be removed, for they stand as a wall between voter desires and indifference.

Pie squared plus three-quarter-inch times the number of crawfish in a 40-pound sack, divided by the radius of a 12-ounce Budweiser can equals A. That's right kiddos, it's time to shine up those K-Mart tennis shoes because it's back to school you go.

First of all, let me congratulate those of you who have the opportunity to be educated for another year. Secondly, let me extend my sincerest condolences to those poor unfortunate souls who have to endure an algebra class.

According to the dictionary, algebra (which, by the way, happens to be on the same page as alcoholism, and may eventually lead to it) is, "A generalization of arithmetic in which letters representing numbers are combined according to the rules of arithmetic."

Now that I have you really excited, did you know:

Ninety percent of the Earth's population who take daily doses of heart medication to survive, at one time, were enrolled in an algebra class.

Taking one semester of algebra will age a person roughly the same as each of our 42 Presidents have aged during their terms in office.

The Congress of the United States is now considering a bill that would alleviate our overcrowded prison population by sending the worst offenders to lengthy terms of algebra class.

Seriously, what I suggest is make friends with a little dude wearing coke-bottle glasses, a pocket protector, and pants that are pulled up to his chest. Personality is not a priority when looking for friends in algebra class.

Cheating is a definite no-no in this subject. Algebra teachers always wear glasses that sit half-way down their noses, and normally carry large wooden rulers. Besides, the only thing worse than learning algebra has got to be TEACHING algebra.

So when you enter the class, do not expect a smiling, beaming, happy-go-lucky sort of person to greet you.

Sleeping, large doses of day-dreaming, and girl or boy watching in this class are also not advisable. Missing just one syllable of one word of one sentence could prove to be disastrous. So, do not take this class after lunch period.

I must admit there are some practical uses for algebra. For example, and this may be an actual problem you will have to solve in class, you have just received your drivers license, and on the average you receive two speeding tickets per year, run three red lights every two years and drive recklessly one time in a 15-month period.

Now figure out exactly how long you will get to use your parent's vehicle to drive your 75 friends back and forth to school each day.

All kidding aside, you kids are lucky that in this country, we have schools to attend. We are a fortunate bunch of folks, so take advantage of every opportunity it affords you.

Praise for do-gooders this week goes out to the bus drivers who safely escort our children back and forth to school each day. Peace.

"There's some $250,000 of timber on those lands, ready to be cut, that we'd like to get back," he said.

In the 1950s, the Hancock and Picayune school boards had negotiated to transfer the students in part of the northern Hancock County area to the Picayune district because the students lived so far away from the Hancock schools and transportation was a problem. In exchange for taking those students, the Picayune district also received the land section in which they lived.

When NASA built the rocket engine test site, now known as John C. Stennis Space Center, much of the land in question became part of the NASA buffer zone, forcing the residents to move out of that area. So, now the area is legally unpopulated.

This could work in the favor of those residents who want to shift back into the Hancock school district, Benvenutti explained.

"The law says you have to have 50 percent of the registered voters on your petition before we can initiate a request that you section be moved back into the Hancock school district," he said.

"You need to check with (circuit clerk) Pam Metzler and find out how many registered voters are in your section, then get at least half those names on a petition."

Superintendent Myrna Bourgeois added, "the more names the better, because some may be disallowed once the process of verifying names is started. The people who sign the petition have to be registered voters, and if they aren't, their signatures won't be allowed to count."

As to the request to waive tuition for those students who want to attend Hancock County schools this year, Benvenutti and board president Cheryl Bennett both pointed out that the board must consider the matter carefully before approving such a request.

"We realize that in your case there is a hardship present, and that yours is a unique situation," Bennett said. "The only thing that keeps me from asking for a motion to approve your request is that we could be setting a precedent that could come back to haunt us. What's to keep anyone who wants their child here from asking us to waive their tuition for whatever reason?"

She urged the parents to pursue the petition for a move back into the Hancock County School District, and told them that the board would convene again Monday, Aug. 14, for a recess meeting.

"If you can get the names between now and then, we can give them to our attorney and go from there," she said.

After Wilson ended her address, the board moved on to the action item consent agenda. The trustees made quick work of the 47-item agenda, approving all but eight items under the consent agenda. Of the other eight items, one was tabled and the other seven quickly approved.

The matters addressed in the agenda included personnel, financial and bid approvals.

NEW BUILDING

Benvenutti, in his report to the board, brought up the matter of the new school district office. The board of supervisors has purchased a piece of property on which the new school administrative office is to be placed.

The school board trustees have stated repeatedly that they will agree to whatever location the supervisors choose, if it is a reasonable location, but they will not direct the supervisors to move the district office.

Benvenutti had told the school board at an earlier meeting that the supervisors' attorney, Gerald Gex, affirmed that a resolution was not needed to move forward in this matter;

the supervisors merely needed a copy of the school board's minutes reflecting their agreement with the move.

However, Benvenutti said that Gex had been directed by supervisor Dolph Kellar to draft a resolution for the school board to pass.

The resolution states: "Be it resolved that, pursuant to Section 25-1-99, the Hancock County Board of Education has determined that the location of the office of the county superintendent be placed on property owned by Eric and Margie Larsen on Hwy. 603, in Section 19, Township 7 South, Range 14 West, and that said new offices are beyond one-half mile of the county courthouse but are feasible and to the benefit of the Hancock County Board of Education."

The school board voted unanimously not to adopt the resolution.

Hancock County awarded money to build juvenile detention center

BY MARY G. SEILEY

Hancock County has been awarded $111,600 to build a juvenile detention center, and $500,000 to build a new marina — but supervisors said Monday they're not sure how they want to spend the money.

News of the juvenile center grant approval through the state came from Jeff Loftus of the Gulf Regional Planning Commission, which applied for the money at the board's request.

Loftus said he'd won the grant by proposing to erect a modular facility that meets federal regulations for housing juveniles, although the county probably could use the funds to renovate a county-owned building instead. Supervisors suggested renovating the former health department building on Dunbar Avenue.

Constructing a modular facility, Loftus estimated, would cost a total of $300,000, and $157,000 a year to operate.

Those estimates appeared to stun some supervisors, and there was concern expressed over how the county would pay to staff the facility later.

As it stands, the county has no juvenile detention facility. Although the county renovated a portion of the county jail to serve that purpose, officials learned later that federal officials would not use the same facility to house immigration detainees if juveniles were lodged there too.

Withdrawal of the immigrant population from the county jail would mean a loss of hundreds of thousands of dollars.

While officials have been trying to decide what to do on a long-term basis, area youths being detained in the court system have been housed at a Pearl River County facility.

Supervisor Alton Kellar said Monday that arrangement costs the Hancock County nothing, while a local facility would cost dearly. He balked at the idea of proceeding with the grant.

Loftus said there are grant sources that can be tapped to provide staffing for the facility after its built.

And Chancery Clerk Michael Necaise noted that the Sheriff's Department has finished retiring its debt for building the jail, freeing up some $136,000 in debt retirement funds per year.

That could be used for staffing if necessary, said Necaise, but not "if we drag our feet and it gets scattered out" for other purposes.

Supervisor Wilmer Seymour said he understood Kellar's reluctance to obligate the county for such a facility, but he urged the board to accept the grant and deal with other issues later.

Sooner or later, Seymour said, officials are going to force Hancock County to provide detention facilities for juveniles. With $111,000, he added, the former health department can be transformed into "a super building" for juveniles.

The officials agreed to take a preliminary look at the costs of transforming the former health department building.

Meanwhile, the county was notified that the state Department of Marine Resources has voted to release $500,000 in Tidelands Trust Fund money for the marina project.

That grant comes as no surprise — local legislators mandated the allocation from fiscal 1996 Tidelands disbursements.

County officials are seeking an additional $500,000 from the same source, but that application remains pending.

One key problem with the project is lack of a county site. Two sites are being appraised in the Bayou Caddy area, but indications are that the property owners want more than the county is willing to pay.

Secrecy at Bay school board meeting

BY RICHARD MEEK

Perhaps if Wednesday night's Bay St. Louis-Waveland School Board meeting were set to music, an appropriate title would be, "Dancing in the Dark."

Shortly after board president Linda Penrose convened the meeting, the board retreated into executive session. Three hours later, Penrose reported no action had been taken during the session.

Shortly after, the board adjourned.

The board did vote to reject special education teacher Angela Anderson's resignation. Anderson, a special ed teacher at Bay High School, had reportedly been offered a job in the Hancock County School District.

In rejecting Anderson's resignation, board member Richard Flowers said she gave "inappropriate notice. (Therefore) we are not releasing her from her contract."

Flowers added the district will "actively seek" a replacement for her, and at that time, she will be released.

"Special education teachers are hard to find, especially four days before school starts," superintendent Paul Tisdale said. School begins tomorrow.

"We don't want to be caught a person short," he added. "If we can find someone to replace her, we will."

In another matter, the board attempted to solve a potential salary dispute at Bay High School. Assistant principal James Baldree, who was recently named to the position, served as Bay Junior High principal a year ago.

Tisdale had recommended he not be rehired, but the board voted to reinstate Baldree at his old position. He also must be paid his salary from last year.

Safely prepare seafood to avoid risks

By Bethany Waldrop Keiper

MSU Ag Communications

To many family cooks, preparing beef, pork or chicken is old hat, but preparing seafood properly can leave them stumped.

Preparing finfish and shellfish can be a challenge, as overcooked seafood can become rubbery and tasteless, while raw or undercooked seafood can pose many health risks.

But with a little extra care, seafood can be a delicious and safe addition to a family's menu.

Dr. Melissa Mixon, extension human nutrition specialist at Mississippi State University, said although some seafoods have traditionally been served raw, this is not the safest option.

"It's a good idea to cook all seafood thoroughly to avoid any health risks," Mixon said. "This includes finfish, oysters, shrimp and other shellfish."

The nutritionist recommended checking all cooked seafood for the proper degree of doneness:

• Fish is thoroughly cooked when the flesh turns opaque and flakes easily with a fork.

• Shrimp are completely done when they turn pink and the tails curl toward the heads.

• Scallops are cooked thoroughly when they are milky white and firm to the touch.

• Oysters and clams are fully cooked when they become plump and opaque, and the oysters' edges curl.

The 10-minute rule is a helpful way to decide on the length of time finfish such as catfish, salmon, flounder or haddock should be cooked.

Measure fish at its thickest point, and cook it 10 minutes for every inch of thickness, turning it over halfway through the cooking time. Double the time for frozen fish that has not been thawed.

Undercooked or raw seafoods can pose many health risks. Fresh-shucked raw oysters have long been a favorite appetizer, but for many people the tab for this delicacy can be fatal.

The nutritionist said a naturally occurring bacteria in raw oysters can have potentially lethal effects.

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration has estimated eating raw oysters containing the bacterium vibrio vulnificus causes about 15 deaths each year.

For more information on safely preparing seafood, contact the USDA's meat and poultry hotline at 1-800-535-4555.

Election

South Bay, to bring his total to 313. Since Tuesday's primary, Favre has picked up nine critical votes.

Williams picked up one vote from Kiln West for a 310 total. Even Seymour was the beneficiary of another vote, this one from South Bay, that left his total at 473. Gavney had picked up one vote on Thursday but none Friday on the recount.

The recount also increased by five the number of people that voted in the District 4 race, from 1194 to 1199.

Pete Benvenuti, chairman of the Hancock County Democratic Executive Committee, said the changes are the results of "human error."

"I don't know where these errors came from," he said. "This is the result."

Benvenuti said he was satisfied with the tabulation by Metzler's office and his committee voted to certify the election Friday night.

At question are the validity of the 107 affidavit votes, which were locked in Metzler's office following the election Tuesday night. Williams claims he talked to one of Metzler's assistants on Thursday morning, who said all of the 107 were verified.

However, by Thursday evening, according to Williams, he was told by Metzler's office that 33 of the original 107 were disallowed because they were ineligible voters.

Williams claims he was told by Circuit Clerk workers that Metzler walked out of the courthouse midday Thursday with the affidavit votes in her possession, a charge she vehemently denies.

"Those votes have been locked in my safe since the election," Metzler said.

She said they were counted the following morning, and then returned to her safe.

"I have no idea what (Williams) is talking about," Metzler said.

Williams said he wants to find out why the 33 votes were thrown out.

"I talked to (the Circuit Clerk office) Thursday morning and all was fine," he said. "Then when I got there (Thursday night), I found out 33 were thrown out."

"I will contest this."

Williams is also charging that Metzler campaigned for Favre. According to Williams, he has at least one eyewitness who will testify he saw Metzler on the stump for Favre.

"People are tired of this," Williams said. "People are saying this is wrong."

Metzler said such an accusation "does not even deserve a comment."

Additionally, Williams is claiming that two streets traditionally considered part of District 5 are in District 4. He said he notified Metzler's office nearly six weeks ago of the confusion, but that nothing was changed for the election.

Metzler said that was "absolutely untrue."

"The maps and laws will back that up," she said.

However, if the District 4 race is ruled invalid, it is conceivable so would the District 5 race, and both would have to be run again before the runoffs. If that scenario plays out, Ladner, stunned by his primary loss to Philip Moran, would receive a second chance.

Moran captured 739 votes in the primary, 12 more than he needed to avoid a runoff.

After the recount Friday, which Williams had attempted to delay until this week, he wondered aloud if another recount would reveal another total.

Williams on Friday contacted the State Attorney General's office and Alice Skelton, the executive director for the State Democratic Party in Jackson.

He is asking officials from both offices, as well as the pollworkers from District 4, election commissioners and other officials to be present when absentee affidavit ballots are unsealed.

He also is petitioning to check the roll books of both districts to check "who voted in said precinct districts."

He claims the rolls are inaccurate, and that, in fact, his wife's aunt, who died 22 years ago, is still listed on the rolls.

"I want to check who voted from their grave," he said as he left the courthouse Friday.

Emergency farm loans

Emergency loans for farmers, ranchers and operators are available through the Hancock County Office of the Rural Economic and Community Development, Deborah L. Williams, RECD county supervisor, said.

Williams said this authority is pursuant to President Clinton's declaration on May 12 of a major disaster in Mississippi, caused by severe storms, tornadoes and flooding which began May 8. As a result of this major disaster, Hancock County is named as an area eligible for federal disaster assistance pursuant to Section 321 (a) of the Consolidated Farm and Rural Development Act.

Applications for assistance in the disaster-stricken county will be accepted by RECD through Jan. 12, 1996, for physical and production losses.

Farmers qualifying for emergency loans may borrow up to 80 percent of their actual production loss, not to exceed a maximum of $500,000 or that actually needed, whichever is less.

CFDA Emergency Loans cover losses from designated disasters and are made to qualified farmers who cannot obtain necessary credit from other lenders in the local area.

Williams said that any farmer who was denied an emergency loan or discouraged from applying for a loan because he or she did not have crop insurance for the 1994 crop might be eligible for a loan since the crop insurance requirement for 1994 has been waived by the agency.

"Any farmer or rancher in that category who is interested in a loan should visit the Consolidated Farm Service Agency county office as soon as possible," Williams said.

"In any case, they must apply no later than 30 days from the date of this publication. However, no applications may be accepted after the eight-month termination date for the particular disaster."

Back-to-school, end-of-summer safety suggestions

Kathy was looking forward to school, but she didn't get there. A motorist probably will never forget her screams. Her classmates cried at her funeral.

The driver of the automobile who hit Kathy hadn't stopped to realize that children returning to school require extra caution from motorists.

"Children caught up in the excitement of beginning a new school year sometimes are not as careful as they should be in crossing streets and highways and before entering or after leaving school buses," noted Donald O'Cain, governor's representative for highway safety and executive director, Mississippi Division of Public Safety Planning.

"It's extremely important that motorists exercise extra caution and be prepared for the unexpected, such as a child darting into the path of traffic."

"Drive slowly, and look to both sides, as well as ahead, in school zones," O'Cain said, "and always come to a complete stop in school crossing area."

He noted that whenever a school bus is stopped for loading or unloading, Mississippi law requires other vehicles in proximity of the bus to also stop. "We're shocked if we hear about a school bus involved in a crash, but most school bus rider injuries are incurred during loading or unloading," he said.

"In addition to stopping when a school bus is stopped, drivers should be cautious when they see students waiting for the bus," O'Cain advised.

"This also is the time of the year when some motorists might be included to travel at excessive speeds or drive recklessly in returning from summer vacations or hurrying to reach Labor Day destinations," he noted.

— Always stay within speed limits, and obey all other highway safety laws.

— Never consume alcoholic beverages before or during the operation of a motor vehicle.

— Always use your vehicle safety belts, and be sure all of

to the recently-renourished beach.

Earlier this week, the Board of Supervisors agreed to downsize the lot by 30 spaces, leaving 50 in place. Another such lot, at Coleman Avenue in Waveland, has been put out for bids.

Laird presented a petition against the Bay St. Louis project, saying not enough study was given to it before it was under construction. He said the county's master beach plan envisioned an open beachfront in the area, and he raised the issue of the parking lot amounting to a "trespass" on beachfront property owned by residents across Beach Boulevard.

As it stands, Laird said, visitors who park on the American Legion pier cause problems for local residents. Some beachgoers leave lots of litter behind, use obscene language and urinate in private yards. The parking lot, he said, will only worsen the problem.

"Their rights ... are just being trampled on," Laird said of the area residents.

City Planner Les Fillingame said city officials have discussed the project's potential for causing problems extensively. The city police department, he said, plans to monitor the new lot actively, to try to ward off troubles. "We plan on watching it very carefully," said Fillingame.

Where can I find unbiased advisor?

By Jan Lukens, MBA, CFP
Q. My husband and I have money we need to invest but when I talk to financial advisors, I feel their only interest is selling a product. Where can I go for advice only? I am willing to pay for the advice. I just don't

Dewitt Bateman, MD

Bateman joins HMC anesthesiology staff

Dale Loiacano, MD, chief of anesthesiology at Hancock Medical Center, Bay St. Louis, announces Dewitt Bateman, MD has recently joined the medical staff.

Bateman, a native of Franklinton, La., was chief anesthesiology resident at Louisiana State University School for two years.

"We are very happy to have this top-notch physician join the anesthesiology department at Hancock Medical Center. We are fortunate he and his family chose this area over several other opportunities," said Loiacano.

The addition of Dr. Bateman brings the HMC anesthesiology staff to six, including Bay St. Louis resident Mark Morgan, MD, who joined Loiacano in 1993.

The number of surgical cases over the past few years has greatly increased, noted Loiacano, who foresees continued growth in the future.

Bateman received his undergraduate, graduate and medical degrees from Louisiana State University. In addition to serving as chief resident, he was a member of the LSU Liver Transplant Team, the Neonatal Anesthesia Team and has extensive training in obstetric anesthesia.

He and his wife Mary reside in Bay St. Louis. They have a son, Zachary, 2½, and are expecting a second child in October.

now, where to find someone who is not biased toward a product they want to sell.

A. Though I am not convinced it is possible to get truly unbiased recommendations from any single source, there is an organization that concentrates on financial planning advice rather than selling products. It is called the National Association of Personal Financial Advisors (NAPFA).

NAPFA membership consists of fee-only planners who work strictly on a fee-for-service basis. They do not receive any compensation — such as sales commissions, referral fees, or even reimbursed costs — from the sale of specific products or implementation of recommendations.

Fee-only planners are compensated in three ways — an hourly fee, flat fee, or percentage fee. If a flat fee is charged, the planner will have a schedule of fees for various services. The percentage fee is based on a stated percent of income or assets managed. It is charged over a period of time for ongoing management services.

Hour fees for "advice-only" generally range from $75 to $125. A flat fee from a fee-only planner runs $350 to $1,500 for a basic financial plan. More complex plans can run from $2,000 to $4,000. Percentage fees should run no more than 1.25 percent per year. If you are buying mutual funds, you pay the fund for management. A one-time sales commission may be less costly than these annual management fees in the long run.

In our area it is difficult to find fee-only financial planners. They are primarily located near metropolitan areas with a population base capable of supporting their services. The closest financial planners with full NAPFA membership are located in South Louisiana and Alabama. Several associate members are located in Mississippi, but they lack some of the NAPFA requirements at this time. For a list of NAPFA members, call 1-800-36-NAPFA.

There are other ways to get financial planning advice without inordinate amounts of sales presentation. Many of our local brokerage and financial planning firms will take your financial information and run a computer-generated financial analysis that gives general rather than specific investment recommendations.

The plans recommend the types of mutual funds, annuities, bonds or stocks, not one company's product. For instance, rather than the XYZ Mutual Fund, it might suggest investing $10,000 in aggressive growth mutual funds. Be sure to ask for generic information. For a basic plan, expect to pay $175 to $400. Keep in mind, you must still select from the many products that fall within the recommendation investment type.

Many business owners and high income individuals need more detailed tax and legal advice than these plans can give. For example, some computerized plans are cited as deficient in detecting "excess retirement accumulations" and potential "excess distribution" problems for highly compensated individuals. These problems relate to IRS restrictions on funds accumulated in tax-deferred retirement plans.

Don't shy away from financial advisors simply because of sales pressure. The complexity of investing, retirement, and estate planning dictates the need for advisors. Get referrals from friends, bankers and attorneys.

I recommend that you interview at least three. Develop an interview format. For a list of initial questions, call 388-4710. Ask other financial advisors for their opinion of those you consider. Others in the same profession will be the first to know if the individual has not served his clientele well.

Hancock Holding declares dividend

Leo W. Seal Jr., president and CEO of Hancock Holding Company, announced the board of directors has declared the third quarter cash dividend of $0.25 per share.

This represents an increase of $0.02 from previous quarters, bringing the regular quarterly dividend payment from $0.23 to $0.25 per share.

Hancock Holding Company's common stock is listed on the NASDAQ National Market System under the symbol HBHC and in the NASDAQ newspaper quotations under the abbreviation HancHd.

Mississippi Power sends help to Gulf Power

Hurricane Erin ended up just being a close call for Mississippi, but it still called for an emergency response from some Mississippi Power Company employees. Mississippi Power sent 67 employees with 52 vehicles to Pensacola Friday morning to help its sister company Gulf Power restore electric service to its customers.

Hurricane Erin passed directly over Pensacola and Fort Walton. At the height of the storm, 215,000 customers were without power. Early Friday, 176,000, or 82 percent of Gulf Power's customers, were still without power.

Twenty-three contract crews, totaling 107 workers, and 13 contract tree-trimmers, who had been brought to Mississippi from Texas, Louisiana and Arkansas in preparation for the storm, were also dispatched to the Pensacola area Friday. They expect to be working on restoration for five to seven days.

"Our policy is to help our neighbors as soon as we can, just as they have helped us in the past," said George East, Mississippi Power's manager of system operations.

"Since we experienced only moderate damage around Meridian and Newton, we were able to send a large contingent to the Pensacola area."

At the height of the storm, about 6,000 Mississippi Power Customers in the Meridian area were without power, primarily from downed trees and limbs. After working through the night, crews had restored power to all customers early Friday.

Alabama Power reported 37,500 customers were without power at the height of the storm as it moved across the southwestern part of the state. Early Friday, about 16,000 Alabama customers remained without power.

Mississippi Power serves more than 183,000 customers in 23 counties in southeast Mississippi. Mississippi Power is a member of The Southern Company, which serves more than 11 million people in the southeastern United States.

Alpha Hospitality negotiating purchase of Greenville casino

Alpha Hospitality Corporation has announced it has entered into a letter of intent for the acquisition of all of the outstanding stock of Cotton Club of Greenville Inc., the owner and operator of the Cotton Club Riverboat Casino in Greenville.

Greenville is located on the Mississippi River midway between Vicksburg and Tunica on US-82. The Cotton Club Riverboat Casino opened in December 1993 and is one of two casino facilities in the Greenville area.

The Cotton Club Riverboat Casino contains 27,000 square feet of casino space and is presently operated with approximately 750 player positions, including 534 slot machines and 30 table games.

A restaurant facility is provided on the entry barge which services the riverboat. The Cotton Club owns or leases land for the parking of approximately 1,200 cars. The acquisition includes all of the Cotton Club's owned and leased real estate.

The Greenville area has experienced only limited casino development. The company believes that, uniquely in the Mississippi-Louisiana area, Greenville presents a major opportunity for growth in gaming activity.

Alpha plans to undertake a major upgrading of the Cotton Club's dockside gaming facility and upland facilities including the addition of facilities for the presentation of major live entertainment and other casino events which the company believes will ensure that the Cotton Club becomes the leading gaming facility in the Greenville market.

The letter of intent is subject to Alpha's satisfaction as to due diligence, completion of financing for the acquisition and approval by the Mississippi Gaming Commission. It is expected that the acquisition will be closed within 120 days.

In addition to its dockside gaming facility in Waveland, the Bayou Caddy's Jubilee Casino, the company is actively engaged in a number of other gaming projects. The company is working on the completion of its acquisition of the Doc Holli-day's Casino in Central City, Colo.

Alpha Missouri Inc., a wholly-owned subsidiary of the company, has completed and executed a long-term lease with the City of Louisiana, Mo., for the river front land required for its previously announced riverboat casino project at that city on the Mississippi River. Both of these projects are subject to the issuance of gaming licenses by the relevant state authorities.

In addition to its gaming operations, the company's hotel management subsidiary operates 21 hotels for third party owners in several major hotel markets throughout the country.

Recognized

Debbie McNeil of Latter & Blum's Bay St. Louis office was recently honored as the agent with the most outgoing referrals.

South Central Bell to be known as BellSouth

BellSouth Telecommunications has announced the company will be changing its brand identification from South Central Bell and Southern Bell to BellSouth.

Southern Bell and South Central Bell became BellSouth subsidiaries in 1984 with the breakup of the Bell System. These companies became BellSouth Telecommunications in 1992, but continued to utilize the Southern Bell and South Central Bell brands when dealing with customers in its nine-state region.

Now, as part of its evolution from a regulated monopoly to a competitive business, the company will use the BellSouth brand rather than the Southern Bell and South Central Bell brands.

This change in identity gives customers one name to remember in an increasingly competitive telecommunications marketplace.

"Competition in the telecommunications industry is growing and is beginning to emerge in the local service market," said Jere Drummond, president and CEO for BellSouth Telecommunications.

"The various BellSouth companies can and will provide a full range of telecommunications services. As new technologies and services emerge, the BellSouth brand will give customers one name they can trust for all their communications needs," Drummond said.

Customers will begin seeing identity changes this fall, including the conversion of building signs, vehicles, pay phones and their phone bills. A nationwide advertising campaign informing customers about the change will also be launched at that time.

"Changing our brand in no way changes the company's commitment to Mississippi," said J. Kelly Allgood, president, Mississippi.

Financial Focus

Goals and Objectives

ARTICLE III

Last week we talked about setting goals when we invest. In determining our investment goal — safety, income or growth, it's vital to consider our own personality and temperament.

Are we self-assured, comfortable in making our own decisions, or are we prone to be swayed by the opinion of others?

An individual who owns and operates his or her own business, regardless of size, is usually more comfortable in making an investment decision than someone whose major activities are confined to the management of a home.

The business person makes investment decisions daily — how much inventory to hold, where and when to issue credit, and so on. So, making an investment decision, weighing the risk-reward and applying it to his or her situation is not entirely unfamiliar. He or she is more self-assured in the investment world.

On the other hand, there are those who will jump at the first suggestion of another, even though that person may not be as successful as they. Try to explain it? We can't — it's just human nature.

Remember the old story of two people looking at a partially filled glass of water — one sees it as half full; the other, half empty?

The optimist sees a stock that's dropped some in its market value as just correcting itself for a giant move forward — another buying opportunity. The pessimist sees the drop in price as the first step toward a total loss.

So, you can see the one who's pessimistic might be uncomfortable with an aggressive growth stock which makes radical moves up and down. Thus, he or she should invest in something less risky.

Also important is how much time one has to devote to investments. Investment situations are constantly changing, and the investor must be aware of these changes and be ready and willing to react.

If your time is limited and your investments must lay unattended for long periods, perhaps professional management is the answer. In any case, you can see the necessity of considering your personality before establishing an investment program.

the hearing, the commission has issued a recommendation without a recommendation either way.

"I'm disappointed with no recommendation," said developer Nicholas Tournillon late Friday afternoon. "It would have made a dramatic difference (with the way City Council may vote)."

He said he is now "evaluating" future plans. "I am not thinking too clearly right now," Tournillon added. "I'm not sure I would make the best judgement today."

Council could vote as early as next Tuesday, and likely will hear a rehash of rage from the public concerning plans for Camp Onward.

Tournillon said much of the opposition Thursday night contained many "misstatements and inaccuracies."

"These people didn't bother to get the proper information," he said.

Thursday's commission meeting drew scores of opponents to City Hall Annex, decrying "creeping commercialism" and urging the commission to retain the strictly residential atmosphere of Beach Boulevard. As each speaker concluded in opposition speeches, the audience cheered and applauded.

The meeting grew so unruly at one point that commission chairman David Bassett rose from his seat and threatened to adjourn it immediately.

At issue are plans by Tournillon and his wife Audrey to convert the main house at 972 South Beach into a four-guest bed and breakfast. The project, he contended, will draw upper class, well-heeled tourists into the city, and help support restoration of the two-story structure.

Tournillon and his attorney, former Bay St. Louis Mayor Victor Franckiewicz, laid out their arguments in an extensive presentation to the board, including letters from some area merchants who agree the project will help boost tourism and shopping in town.

Other support came from neighbors of the Palm House bed and breakfast on Union Street, who said that operation has caused no disruption of their residential atmosphere.

The audience, however, was unwayed and unsympathetic. "We firmly believe ... we need to protect our neighborhood from commercial development," said Dorothy McLemore, saying the bed and breakfast would attract "a stream of strangers" to the area.

"In this case, the only one to benefit from this is the owner, who anticipates a tax break," said McLemore.

The Tournillons had said they hoped to have the home listed on the National Register of Historic Places, use revenues from the guests to help maintain the property, and receive a tax credit for restoration.

That statement irked several in the audience, including one woman who said she resented the couple getting federal assistance to renovate the home.

Others were more concerned that approval of the project would set a precedent—opening the door to a steady stream of applications for commercial projects that the city would be forced to accept.

But Tournillon said his development would be a small step in attracting economic growth to the Bay.

"I see what's happening here," he said. "Business owners are having to close up because there's no business here in the winter. People who stay at bed and breakfasts normally leave money behind."

Tournillon said the citizens' objections shows a lack of faith in city government. He said opponents are telling commission members "we don't trust you to do your job," in keeping out commercialism.

"That's silly," he said.

Michelle Ward, who lives in the neighborhood, objected to characterization of the home as historical. "Just because it's old doesn't mean it's historical. She characterized the dwelling, now under restoration, as 'a shell ... just an old barn.'"

Temper grew shorter as the time grew later, and there were interruptions from the audience of speakers and members of the commission itself.

But the commission spent little time debating the merits of the matter when the presentations were over. Commissioner Elaine LaFontaine said while the reconstruction of Camp Onward is an improvement to the area, she had to agree with the opponents' points. Her motion to deny the application for a special exception was immediately followed by a second from commissioner

Tommy Chapman.

Seeing a vote imminent, planner Les Fillingame urged the commission to consider the value a bed and breakfast has in a historic neighborhood.

"I am at a loss to find negative aspects," said Fillingame.

He added that many of the opponents' suspicions are "very poorly founded. The commission needs to think about the facts, rather than suspicions ... the reality rather than the fears."

McLemore interrupted Fillingame by asking why he had authority to speak in the matter. Another protested that the commission wasn't following parliamentary procedure.

Fillingame said while he doesn't live in the immediate vicinity of the proposed bed and breakfast, it is a matter of interest to the entire area. "I didn't expect you all to applaud me. You've been applauding each other with that ... close-knit attitude."

Many of the same arguments used in Thursday's meeting were used a year ago when the commission was asked to approve a bed and breakfast in a North Beach Boulevard home. That proposal ultimately was rejected.

City Council also recently rejected plans for a bed and breakfast on Washington Street.

Tournillon, who said he was aware of the P&Z's previous rejections, said the commission and city council are allowing a "vocal minority to speak for the majority."

"The majority are not being heard and represented," he said. "The city is letting a small few call the shots."

He added that the city must decide if it wants to "just be a weekend community and a retiree place for people from New Orleans."

He said if that's all city officials are planning for, then they "need to let the citizens know."

Waste

That's not true. That's incorrect," Scafile advised a meeting of the Planning Commission.

Friday, he asked the Board of Supervisors to let the Planning Commission draft and present a plumbing code or sanitary code that would give the county building official authority to require adequate waste disposal systems be in place before a building permit is issued. Board members, however, said they wanted to study the matter further before asking for such a code.

The controversy has been brewing for months. Until July, state law gave the state Health Department the power to require installation of waste disposal systems that are adequate to accommodate particular lot sizes and soil conditions.

Before that law expired on July 1, the board passed a resolution that would simply extend the previous process, at the request of the Planning Commission.

Board attorney Gerald Gex, however, later took the position that the resolution was unenforceable. Monday, the board rescinded the resolution and said there was nothing further they could do.

Scafile said, however, 40-year-old state law gives all cities and counties the authority to enact codes protecting the general health and safety of citizens, including plumbing, sanitation, and electrical codes.

He suggested the county adopt a plumbing code, and put a county official in charge of ensuring it's enforced.

In the one month that acceptable waste treatment systems have not been required, Scafile said, the county building inspector has issued 10 building permits for lots within the flood hazard area.

One of those lots, he said, had previously been rejected by the Health Department. Five others, he added, are lots that are too small to accommodate acceptable systems.

The result, he said, is a rash of approval for systems that will dump raw sewage into adjacent bayous and streams.

Gex insisted, however, the county's hands are tied. "I talked to the attorney general's office and they said there's nothing we can do," said Gex.

"The board is not powerless. You can do something about it if you want to," Scafile replied, obviously irritated at Gex's stance and the board's reluctance to act further. "Pollution is going to continue to get worse and worse in our streams and our bayous and our county."

Supervisor Adolph Keller said news that the county may enact a plumbing code would prompt an outcry from the public. And, he said, he's been told for years the county has no authority to pass a plumbing code without adopting the entire Southern Standard Building Code.

That's incorrect, Scafile insisted.

students to sea with science teachers and Navy scientists to study the world's oceans and seas and to experience the countries and cultures these waters border.

Mason, along with his science teacher Nettie Mayatt, spent three weeks in July visiting ports in Sicily and Greece.

"It was a great learning experience," said Mason, who was honored Monday at the Naval Meteorology and Oceanography Command at Stennis by Rear Adm. Paul Gaffney II and Mississippi Governor Kirk Fordice. The Command sponsored Mason and Mayatt.

"I was able to visit and study different cultures and countries," Mason said. "I would go again in a heartbeat."

"I hope other students from Mississippi get a chance to go."

Mason was selected during the Mississippi Science and Engineering Fair on the marine science merits of his project, "The Taming of the Sea—An Environmental Approach for Oil Pollution."

This was the first year that the Naval and Meteorology Command has sought participants through the state science fair system.

Mason said he found life aboard the ship "laid back" and that because of the experience, he may consider oceanography as a career.

"Oceanography is an interesting field of work," the 16-year-old said. "They lead great lives, and are able to visit ports all over the world doing research."

"Maybe one day I might be working as an oceanographer."

Mason still must complete his Marco Polo obligations when school starts Tuesday. He will share his acquired knowledge through lectures to school and community groups in the DeKalb area.

Fordice praised Mason's commitment to academic excellence, saying the teenager's decision to take more difficult courses "will bode well" in the future. The governor also encouraged the youngster to pursue advanced degrees, saying "there are not a lot of places in the world for people with (bachelor's degrees). Many are bagging groceries and pumping gas."

COMMUNITY

View of Le Marin Cottage

The Hancock County Historical Society opened a "View of Le Marin Cottage", 406 North Beach Blvd., Bay St. Louis on Thursday Aug. 10 at 10 a.m.

The renewal of this circa 1860's beach front cottage by owners Carter Church and Yancy Pogue in collaboration with interior designers, artists, craftsmen and friends to present the Gulf Coast's first documented Decorator's Showcase to benefit the building fund of the Society.

Fresh, seaside colors enhance the exterior of Le Marin Cottage, while the gallery opens into a palette of comfortable, eclectic styles of wall, window, floor and furnishing treatments.

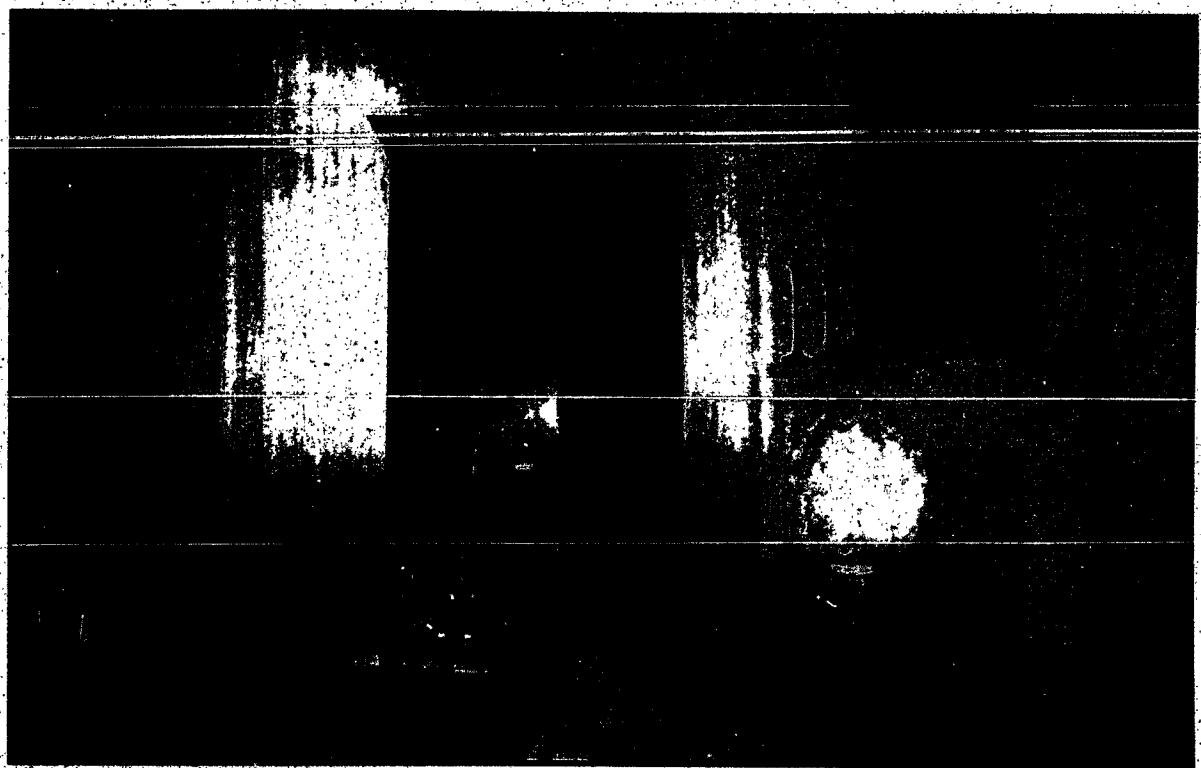

You remember Tinker Bell, a playful spirit in the Walt Disney version of Peter Pan, sparking into life with her magic wand all matter of wonders and surprises and enchantments: so, too, with Le Marin's designers and decorators. They called forth and preside over variety, diversity and uniqueness. They are especially responsible for that which makes each space most particularly itself.

The Historical Society will also operate a small gift shop during "View of Le Marin Cottage".

Le Marin Cottage will be open for public viewing Thursday-Saturday, 10 a.m.-4 p.m. and Sunday noon-3 p.m. through Sept. 5. Special group tours may be arranged by calling 467-4090. A donation for the Hancock County Historical Society will be accepted at the door. Parking is available across from 406 North Beach and on Ulman Avenue.

WEDDINGS, ENGAGEMENTS

Bocock-Kersanac

Melissa Marie Kersanac and Frank Kevin Bocock were united in marriage June 17, 1995, in an afternoon ceremony at Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church in Bay St. Louis. Father Pete Mockler officiated. Organist was Alana Grantham, and soloist was Marilyn Lott. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Dorothy L. Kersanac and Mr. Joseph Kersanac, both of Bay St. Louis. The groom's parents are Robert Bocock of Honduras, Central America, and the late Eileen Bocock. The bride was given in marriage by her father. She chose for her wedding a gown of moonlight-white silk with French lace, beading and sequins. She carried a nosegay of white roses. Matron of honor was Katrina Lott. Maid of honor was Sabrina Kersanac. Bridesmaids were Nancy Artigues, Monica Bocock, Wendy Bocock, Elise McCollister and Michelle Van Peski. Junior bridesmaid was Kristy Kersanac. Flower girl was Millie Lott. Ringbearer was Thomas Bocock. Toy Bocock was best man. Ushers included John Kersanac, Mak Kersanac and Tim Kersanac. Groomsmen were Robby Bocock, Jonathan Bolner, Curtis Dooley, Oscar Martinez, Alex Robles and Yvar Torrealba. Nancy Gex hosted a bridesmaids luncheon June 16 at Armand's in Waveland. A reception was at Grass Lawn in Gulfport. The couple will honeymoon in St. Lucia, West Indies.

Mrs. and Mrs. Frank Kevin Bocock

Harvel-Ambrose

Andrea Ambrose

Mr. and Mrs. David Ross Ambrose of Bay St. Louis announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Andrea Marie Ambrose of Jackson, to James Ira Harvel of Jackson. The couple will exchange vows Saturday, September 16 at 2 p.m. at Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church. Ambrose is the granddaughter of Colonel and Mrs. Dudley A. Morlier of Chalmette, La. and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Laverick of Pass Christian. The bride-elect is a graduate of Our Lady Academy and was graduated magna cum laude from the University of Southern Mississippi where she was a member of Kappa Delta Sorority. She was also a member of Omnicron Delta Kappa Honor Society, served as a student body senator, was a member of the Honors College, and was named to USM's Who's Who. She is currently employed as an analyst at Conway Computer Group in Jackson. Her fiancé is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Rae Harvel of Clinton, Miss. He is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Weinsinger of Van Buren, Ark. and Mr. and Mrs. Raybon Harvel of Fort Smith, Ark. Harvel is a graduate of Clinton High School and received a bachelor of science degree and bachelor of business administration degree from Mississippi State University. He received his master's in business administration from Millsaps College. He is currently employed as a marketing representative at Conway Computer Group in Jackson. The couple will reside in Jackson.

Computer BUGS

The Computer Bay User Group Society (BUGS) met Aug. 9 at the Hancock County Historical Society. Features, services, cost and the future of the World Wide WEB (Internet) was covered by Ed Walker of Oasis Associates.

A demo of on-line service of the World Wide Web was presented with the announcement of possible Web service to be coming directly to the Bay-Waveland Area. The service will cut the cost of the local Internet WEB users' phone bill.

The next meeting will be Sept. 6 at the sponsor's Veterans of Foreign Wars Bay St. Louis Post 3253 at 7 p.m. On-line searching and file retrieval from the Web will be covered by Ed Walker of Oasis Associates.

The Computer BUGS is a self-help group, including all skill levels of computer users in Hancock County. Experts to beginners in computer software and hardware are invited to attend the meeting.

The Computer User Group meets on the second Wednesday of each month. Anyone wanting more information on the group may contact the VFW Post Commander Gene Schloegel at 467-6772.

BAY ST. LOUIS

TOPS MS 286 Bay St. Louis met Thursday Aug. 10, at the Hancock Medical Center in Bay St. Louis.

Best loser for the week was Alvina. Last week's meeting was cancelled because of the storm, therefore the business meeting and approval of the by-laws will be conducted Aug. 17. Also there will be an election for treasurer and secretary.

The group meets every Thursday with weigh-ins beginning at 6 p.m., followed by the meeting at 6:45. Anyone interested in joining or to visit the group may call Leila at 452-7318 or Mary at 467-7217.

Diamondhead Rotary

Rotary Club of Diamondhead is planning a fund-raiser at Park Ten Lanes Bowling Alley. Interested persons may contact any Rotarian for information.

Patrick Wild was recently installed as 1995-96 president. District Governor Jack Stroup welcomed the 1995-96 officers, who are Jennifer Gonzales, vice president; Ethel LeBreton, secretary; Chuck Thissell, treasurer; and Tony Esau, sergeant-at-arms.

Literacy project chairman Eddie Fernandez said the collection of Diamondhead Supermarket cash register receipts is ongoing. The receipts are redeemable for cash in support of Hancock County's Literacy Program. Receipts may be given to any Rotarian, or dropped off at Diamondhead branches of Peoples Bank, Merchants Bank or Hancock Bank.

Southern Women's Club

The Southern Women's Club met Aug. 10 at the Center for Women's Health in Long Beach. Guest speaker was Margaret Smith, whom Southern Women's Club sent to Girls State.

Jan Brannon has been chosen to receive the DH scholarship. Southern Women's Club will be sponsoring Patch the Pony this fall, a stranger awareness program for kindergarten children.

The monthly donation will go to Feed My Sheep. Any canned goods or non-perishable foods will be taken up.

The next meeting will be Sept. 13 at 9:30 a.m. at the Center for Women's Health in Long Beach.

Krewe of Nereids kicks off its 30th anniversary

The Krewe of Nereids hosts its annual family fish fry and dance Saturday, Aug. 19 at the Hancock County Civic Center on Longfellow Road in Bay St. Louis.

Fried fish, hush puppies and potato salad will be served 4-8 p.m. A hearty green bean casserole and iced tea round out the meal for $6 per person. Take-out orders and homemade desserts will be available.

Entertainment will be provided by the krewe members beginning at 8 p.m., followed by a dance featuring Laurin Munsch and Steppin' Out from 9 p.m.-1 a.m.

For a $12.50 per person donation, guests can dance to the popular sounds of this versatile rhythm and blues band from New Orleans. Setups will be provided. Guests will also have an opportunity to bid on a variety of unique silent auction items and participate in the $1,000 raffle.

The benefit fish fry and dance is one of the major fund raisers for the Krewe of Nereids, which sponsors an annual Mardi Gras parade in the Bay-Waveland area.

This year will be the 30th anniversary year for the krewe. Tickets are available in advance from Nereids members or at the door Aug. 19.

The public is invited. For information, call Patsy Dubuisson at 467-0244.

Tips for golf course etiquette

For beginning golfers, there is more to learn about the game than driving, chipping and putting. Good game etiquette also is essential, says the director of golf operations at Mississippi State University.

Blane Merritt, who is one of 36 faculty members for the Professional Golfer's Association Professional Training Program, offers this advice for new golfers:

- Before you begin, learn the game. "Whether through books, instructional videos or a professional golfer, you must obtain proper instruction," Merritt advises.

Mississippi State

- Spend time on the practice range. Time spent there will ease adjustment to the actual course.

- Play at times when the course is not busy. "You can take your time, and you won't be intimidated by other players," Merritt says.

- Allow faster groups behind you to play through. "On average, it takes a group of four about four hours to play 18 holes," he explains.

- Play "ready" golf when playing in groups. Check the yardage, wind and other variables while the others in your group are hitting. When it is your turn to hit, you should be ready.

- The person who is farther from the green hits first. And when others are hitting there's one rule: be quiet.

- Never step directly in someone else's putting line.

- After completing a hole, go to the next tee box to tally your score. This allows the players behind you to proceed with their game.

- Keep golf carts away from the greens and the tee boxes.

- Be a good sport. "You should never, under any circumstances, throw clubs while on a golf course," Merritt says.

Mississippi State has one of only four PGA-sanctioned Professional Golf Management programs in the nation. Merritt is a graduate of the program, which is part of the university's College of Business and Industry.

Ballroom dancers

The United States Amateur Ballroom Dancers Association (USABDA) has announced that a chapter for ballroom dancers will be organized in the Gulfport area. A steering committee of local dancers will be formed to guide the project and enroll members.

USABDA, a non-profit, volunteer organization, is the governing body for amateur ballroom dancing in the United States and has chapters all over the country.

The local chapter will sponsor monthly social dances for members and the public. Typically, each dance will consist of a one-hour dance lesson, followed by three hours of general dancing as well as dance demonstrations.

The chapter also will promote ballroom dance training in local colleges and high schools, and will seek to increase the number of business establishments that offer ballroom dancing to the public. Membership will be open to singles as well as couples — beginners are welcome and will be helped get started.

Local dancers who are interested in helping form the chapter, call 1-800-447-9047 or write to USAEDA, P. O. Box 128, New Freedom, PA 17349.

Select Soccer tryouts

The newly formed Deep South Futbol Club is having select soccer tryouts in the Hancock County area for boys under 12 on Tuesday, 5:30 p.m., at Waveland Elementary School on St. Joseph Street.

All participants should bring soccer ball, cleats, shin guard and water. Coach is Trey Kidd.

For information call Kelyn Breland at 467-9525 or 467-4616, or Kathy Kulikowski at 467-7828.

Sheriff presents award

Police Chief John J. Doyle of Harahan, La. was awarded a special citation Tuesday by Hancock County Sheriff Ronnie Peterson.

The award, presented in the Sheriff's Office recognized Doyle's efforts in training and developing SWAT Team personnel for the Sheriff's Department. Also participating in making the award were the police chiefs of Waveland and Bay St. Louis.

Doyle's department provided the same training for those agencies as well as for the Biloxi Police Department.

In a unique, cooperative arrangement, Doyle's officers are commissioned by the Hancock County Sheriff's Department to serve as emergency back-up personnel.

Doyle's department has also worked with NASA security personnel at the Stennis Space Center to develop a hostage-response system.

WEDDINGS

Vonder Bruegge-Bezou

The marriage of Miss Nicole Renee Bezou of Bay St. Louis and Mr. J. Bryan Vonder Bruegge of Long Beach was solemnized July 19, 1995 in an evening ceremony at Nativity of the Blessed Virgin Mary Church in Biloxi with Father Bill Kelly and Father Dennis Carver officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Bezou Sr. of Bay St. Louis.

The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Vonder Bruegge Sr. of Long Beach.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Music was provided by Phil Beining, organist; Ron Crosby, trumpeter; and Bragg Williams, flautist. Soloists were Diane McCarty and Melissa Silkwood.

The bride chose for her wedding a formal gown of white silk taffeta with scalloped Sabrina neckline and long sheer tapered sleeves on fitted dropped-waist bodice, which was overlaid with sequined and beaded French Alencon lace.

The back dipped to a deep V above a decorated bow. A scalloped lace border formed the hemline of the full skirt and cathedral-length train. She wore a tiara headpiece of lace and pearls with tiered illusion veil extending past the train of her gown.

The attendants were attired in floor-length gowns of navy-blue silk shantung in a sheath style. The portrait collar was overlaid with white venise lace.

The flower girl wore an ankle-length gown of white laune trimmed with Battenburg lace collar and matching floppy-brimmed hat.

Maids of honor were Remy Bezou and Amy Rutledge.

Bridesmaids were Charity Inabnet, Lori Brown, Robbin Vonder Bruegge and Michelle Williams.

Flower girl and ring bearer were Cassie Bryant and Chip Vonder Bruegge, respectively.

Best men were Charles Vonder Bruegge Jr. and Charles Vonder Bruegge Sr.

Groomsmen included John Bezou Jr., John Fleming, Dr. David Schwab and John Walker Jr. Ushers were Timothy Alan Kelly and Teddy Paul Rose.

A rehearsal dinner was at Barnaby's.

The couple will reside in Oxford.

Mrs. J. Bryan Vonder Bruegge

Adams-Albright

The marriage of Miss Krista Ellen Albright of Waveland and Mr. O'Neil James Adams of Biloxi was solemnized at St. Clare Catholic Church in Waveland July 15, 1995 with Father Noel Fannon officiating at the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard D. Kihnen, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Peggy Adams Moreta.

A reception was held at Jourdan Shore Community Center in Kiln.

The bride, whose mother is the former Karen Pepperman, was graduated from Our Lady Academy in Bay St. Louis and is presently pursuing a career in interior design at the University of Southern Mississippi. She is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John D. Pepperman and Mrs. Richard D. Albright and the late Mr. Richard D. Albright.

The bridegroom, who is the son of Peggy Adams Moreta and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Adams, was graduated from Biloxi High School and is pursuing a career in criminal justice at the University of Southern Mississippi.

The couple will reside in Hattiesburg.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Neil James Adams

HOROSCOPES

August 13-19

ARIES - March 21/April 20

Don't take yourself so seriously this week Aries. Things will come in their own time. A long walk or competitive game of tennis will boost your spirits. Thinking of asking a Pisces to join you? You'll be pleased with the answer you get. Keep sight of long-term goals.

TAURUS - April 21/May 21

A Sagittarius needs a strong shoulder on Monday. Offer your support, but tell the truth. It's a bad time to neglect fitness — both mentally and physically. You've got a lot on your mind. A financial burden lifts on Friday. Young children play a role this coming weekend.

GEMINI - May 22/June 21

Watch out Gemini! Your soft, charming side is lurking around every corner. A Leo is touched by your display of affection. Go with it. Both of you will reap the benefits. Creative endeavors will be successful. Don't be afraid to express yourself through your work.

CANCER - June 22/July 22

Don't let work get you down this week. Make special efforts to keep your mood on an even keel. A Scorpio brings you good news on Wednesday. An old flame tries to rekindle romance over the weekend. Put out the fire — fast. Financial investments turn a profit.

LEO - July 23/August 23

The only thing bigger than your ego this week is your kind heart. Pay a special visit to a sick family member on Tuesday. The effects will astonish you. A long-awaited promotion lifts your spirits even more as the week ends. Still, be sure to stretch your dollars as far as they'll go.

VIRGO - Aug 24/Sept 22

An old love tries to come back on Tuesday. Go ahead, take a chance. Space will relieve tension among friends this week. Don't overestimate your free time. Give your attention to pressing matters first. The encouragement you give to a subordinate will go a long way.

LIBRA - Sept 23/Oct 23

Your charisma makes everyone want to get close to you this week. Have fun in the spotlight. Be careful not to sell close friends out for a few laughs. A Scorpio confides secrets on Thursday. Listen closely to what (s)he says. Be careful not to overadvise or criticize. Scorpio probably isn't looking for advice.

SCORPIO - Oct 24/Nov 22

Share what's bothering you with good friends on Tuesday. It's important to bring everything out in the open now, or problems will resurface later. Put your career first this week. A demanding project requires your full attention. A relaxing weekend hits the spot.

SAGITTARIUS - Nov 23/Dec 21

Open yourself up to new career moves this week. It's time to walk a more creative path. Don't be afraid to take a chance. A Gemini has good insight into romantic dilemmas. Don't rely on others to bail you out of financial holes. Realistic budgets help you get by.

CAPRICORN - Dec 22/Jan 20

Get off the couch, Capricorn. It's not the time to be lazy. Make fitness your tool to build a more exciting routine. A social invitation from a Taurus provides incentive. Money is tight over the weekend. It's time to put an end to a bad habit. Self control is your key to success.

AQUARIUS - Jan 21/Feb 18

Don't worry if work-related projects aren't up to par. Take time off, you need it. A relaxing few days midweek will give you the boost you need to get back on top. Take full advantage. An unexpected night out makes you smile on Saturday. Show a loved one how you really feel.

PISCES - Feb 19/March 20

It's your week to shine. Don't take a minute for granted. Romance is new and exciting. Money matters are in your favor. Now you can afford to make that extra-special purchase. Tell your mate how much he/she means. A few kind words will go a very long way.

YOUR BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

The next 12 months: Nothing ever seems to move as fast as you want it to. The next two months are no exception. But be patient, good things are right around the corner. Career improvements accelerate fast over the winter months. It's almost hard to keep up. Put extra in effort at work around the holidays. Your flirtatious nature leads you to a spring romance. But that flirtatious nature could keep you from lasting romance. Be careful. Family plays a bigger role than usual as summer rolls around. A sibling or other close family member will be reaching a major milestone. Marriage is likely.

Press association awards scholarships

Winners have been selected in the sixth annual Mississippi Press Association Education Foundation's Scholarship contest. They are Christopher Royce Shaw of Forest, Nellie Kelly of Fulton and Amanda Jones of Summit.

The scholarship recipients were selected on the basis of grades, clips from student-edited or commercial newspapers, and commitment to a career in journalism.

Christopher Royce Shaw, a junior journalism major at University of Mississippi, receives the newest journalism scholarship funded through Newsprint South Corp. and administered by the Mississippi Press Association Education Foundation.

He will receive $500 per semester beginning when he enters USM this fall, and continuing through his senior year, as long as he meets the necessary guidelines. Shaw attended Jones Community College as a freshman and sophomore.

Also funded by Newsprint South is the Tom C. Parry Journalism Scholarship awarded to Nellie Kelly, an upcoming junior at the University of Mississippi. Kelly, a journalism major from Itawamba Community College, has served as a writer for the ICC Chieftain and as an intern and writer at the Itawamba County Times.

The MPA Education Foundation's newest recipient is Amanda L. Jones, a journalism major from Southwest Mississippi Community College. Jones has served as a staff writer and editor of the SMCC Pine Burr and as an intern and staff writer for the McComb Enterprise Journal. She will enter Ole Miss as a junior this fall.

Current MPA Education Foundation Scholarship recipients are Jami Clark of Ocean Springs, and Jamie Komegay of Batesville. Clark, a senior journalism major, and Komegay, a junior journalism student, will continue their $500 per semester scholarship at the University of Mississippi this fall. Both students first received their scholarships as beginning freshmen and have met all requirements for continuation each semester since that time.

All recipients will receive $500 per semester toward journalism studies at their chosen state institution and must maintain a 3.0 grade point average to continue the scholarship from semester to semester. Each must provide proof of summer internship upon completion of the junior year to get priority for the senior year.

MPA awarded the scholarships at an awards luncheon during the association's summer convention at the Eola Hotel in Natchez.

The Mississippi Press Association has represented Mississippi's newspapers since 1866. The MPA Education Foundation was started in 1985 to promote the advancement of journalism education in our state.

Long distance, summer romances take effort

By Dr. Ann Jarratt
4-H Youth Development
Cooperative Extension Service

"I met a girl about a month ago at a youth camp, and we really hit it off. We promised to keep in touch after leaving camp, even though we live in different states.

"So far I've sent her four letters, but she hasn't answered a single one. She seems to have lost interest in our relationship. I really miss her. How can I let her know that I want our relationship to continue?"

I'm forever the romantic. Maybe she has been on a long vacation with her family and doesn't have a clue that your letters are filling her mailbox. Imagine her excitement when she gets home and finds your letters.

Let's at least give her the benefit of a doubt. Maybe this has been an extremely busy week for her, and she has a letter started but hasn't found just the right words yet.

If you have your parents' permission, give her a call. Assume the best until you talk with her.

and find out differently.

Tell her you've been looking forward to hearing from her and wondered if she has gotten your letters. Listen to her words and for the feelings behind the words. If you get a positive response, wait and see if she follows through beyond that.

If you don't hear from her in another week or so, you can hold on to the happy memories of camp and concentrate on making some more good memories right where you are.

"I think I have the summer-time blues. I want to be involved in a lot of activities this summer and get out of the house, but so far all of my efforts have turned up nothing. I've applied for jobs just about everywhere with no leads. What can I do to get more out of my time away from school?"

Have you tried volunteering? Most groups I know long for and beg to get volunteers to help carry out their programs. To have a motivated, dedicated teen show up to volunteer his or her time or talent would make any program director's heart leap.

Recreation programs need helpers in almost every community. If what you enjoy doing is not on their program list for the summer, chances are good that they would be glad to offer a new program to involve more kids. Athletic teams need coaches and assistant coaches.

If you enjoy spending time with older people, retirement homes and nursing homes could use your talents whether it's music, letter writing, or just talking and listening. Taking residents for short walks around the grounds would be a treat to those who don't get outside their rooms unless a staff member has the time to take them.

Local students place in directory drawing contest

Stephen Boh, a former third grade student at North Bay Elementary School was selected first place winner in the "We Love Wildlife" Directory Drawing Contest.

He was awarded a $250 U.S. Savings Bond at a ceremony held May 24 at the J. L. Scott Marine Education Center.

There were 16,000 entries submitted from Harrison, Hancock and Jackson counties kindergarten through sixth grade students.

One first place winner was chosen from each of the grades. There were 182 second place winners and one grand prize winner.

IN THE CHANCERY COURT OF HANCOCK COUNTY, MISSISSIPPI
RICHARD S. SOBECCK, COMPLAINANT
VERSUS
WHITE CYPRESS LAKES DEVELOPMENT CORP.,
LEON S. FORNER, AND LEGAL ASSET MANAGE-MENT CORPORATION, ET AL, DEFENDANTS
PUBLICATION
NO. 95-0498

TO: (1) White Cypress Lakes Development Corp., and all of its unknown successors, its unknown assigns, unknown stockholders, directors and officers, and any and all of their unknown heirs, successors or assigns claiming any interest in and to the hereinafter described land and property, by or through White Cypress Lakes Development Corp., whose street address and post office address is unknown to Complainant after diligent search and inquiry; and

(2) Legal Asset Management Corporation and all of its unknown successors, its unknown assigns, unknown stockholders, directors and officers, and any and all of their unknown heirs, successors or assigns claiming any interest in and to the hereinafter described land and property, by or through Legal Asset Management Corporation, whose street address and post office address is unknown to Complainant after diligent search and inquiry; and

(3) Leon S. Forner, if alive, and if dead his unknown heirs, successors or assigns claiming any interest in and to the hereinafter described land and property, whose street address and post office address is unknown to Complainant after diligent search and inquiry; and

(4) Any and all other persons having or claiming any legal or equitable interest in and to the hereinafter described land and property, whose street address and post office address is unknown to Complainant after diligent search and inquiry.

Said land and property is located and situated in Hancock County, Mississippi, and described as follows, to-wit:

Lot 5, QUAIL RIDGE PHASE II, a subdivision according to the map or plat thereof on file and of record in the office of the Chancery Clerk of Hancock County, Bay St. Louis, Mississippi, in Plat Book 6, Page 40 and 41, together with all improvements thereon, LESS AND EXCEPT all oil, gas and other minerals on, in and under said land.

You have been made a Defendant in the suit filed in this Court by Richard S. Sobecck, Complainant whose address is c/o 5401 Hill Boulevard, Diamondhead, Mississippi 39525.

The Complaint filed against you has initiated a civil action alleging legal ownership of the above described property and seeking to correct instruments and to quiet and confirm title.

You are required to file with the Clerk of this Court a written answer either admitting or denying each allegation in the complaint; and, in addition, a copy of your written answer should be either mailed or hand delivered to W. RODERICK JOHNSON, SR., Johnson & Johnson, P.A., Complainant's Attorney, whose address is 5401 Indian Hill Boulevard, Diamondhead, Mississippi 39525. YOUR ANSWER MUST BE FILED NOT LATER THAN THIRTY (30) DAYS AFTER THE DATE OF THE FIRST PUBLICATION OF THIS SUMMONS. IF YOUR ANSWER IS NOT SO MAILED OR DELIVERED, A JUDGMENT BY DEFAULT MAY BE ENTERED AGAINST YOU FOR THE MONEY OR OTHER RELIEF DEMANDED IN THE COMPLAINT.

Witness my signature and official seal this 25 day of July, 1995.

As temperatures soar . . . Choose cool styles, fabrics for summer

By Moira Brodnax

MSU Ag Communications
Mississippi's hot, humid days are likely to continue well into the fall, but knowing how to dress appropriately can make the heat more bearable.

Fiber content, fabric construction, garment design and color are all elements which will affect how cool a piece of clothing will be.

Dr. Evelyn Johnson, extension apparel and textiles specialist at Mississippi State University, said natural fibers such as cotton, linen and ramie are cooler because they have high absorption power and will dry quickly.

"Natural fibers love moisture, so they will absorb sweat and dry quickly to help reduce body heat," Johnson said. "Synthetic materials do not absorb moisture well and will trap moisture next to the body, causing less ventilation through the garment and greater discomfort."

Lightweight fabrics with an open-weave or open knit construction allow for the flow of air through the garment, which will keep the body cooler, Johnson added.

Chambray, muslin, gauze, challis, mesh, cotton jersey and single knits are ideal lightweight fabrics for a hot day.

Garment design also plays a role in reducing body heat. Loose fitting clothes will allow body heat to escape and air to circulate.

"Cool garment design choices include large necks, armholes and legs; unlined garments; pants that do not require a belt; straight legged pants; and shirts and blouses worn untucked," Johnson said.

Color affects how warm or cool a garment will be when worn outside in the sun. White and light colors will reflect the light and heat away from the body, while dark colors will absorb the heat and feel much warmer on the body.

"A light-colored, loose fitting, open knit cotton outfit will be your best bet on a hot day in the sun," Johnson said.

Make special considerations when laundering summer garments which have additional odors and moisture. Ammonia or detergents with door eating agents can be added to the wash load to remove odors.

"Never put clothes that are moist from perspiration, water or other liquids in the hamper because mildew will grow on the garments," Johnson said. "Exposure to light and air will keep mildew from forming."

If mildew forms, chlorine can be added to the wash if it is safe for the fabrics involved. All-fabric bleach can be used, if chlorine is not good for the fabric, but it will take longer to eliminate mildew.

Virtual reality game provides state-of-the-art thrill

A new virtual reality game unlike any other has come to Six Flags Over Texas. Chameleon, an interactive, motion-based, virtual reality experience that puts guests in the heart of the action, is featured in the Good Times Square section of the park. This one-of-a-kind game encourages teamwork and allows guests to compete against each other. Each mission costs $5.

This marks the first permanent United States installation of Chameleon, which uses state-of-the-art Silicon Graphics Inc. Onyx Reality Engine II visual systems (the same that created the dinosaurs in Jurassic Park), dual passenger controls with switching capability, comfortable seating, Peavey 24-channel stereo sound system, and scoring printouts.

Since each mission is different every time you play, your score can actually improve with practice.

Chameleon is the world's first centrifuge-based, totally interactive simulation game designed for the theme park industry. Guests control the machine and make it respond to their every command. The simulator reacts in real time and visuals are realistic and correspond to each movement.

It's the next great leap in virtual reality game technology, adding motion to a formally static play environment," said Tom Iven, vice president of retail at Six Flags Over Texas.

"It's the next logical progression for this industry and you'll find it first here at Six Flags Over Texas."

The technology of this unique game experience comes from Chameleon Technologies Inc., whose parent company is Veda Incorporated. Veda is a defense contractor which has provided flight simulation and spatial disorientation technology to the military for over 30 years.

Veda was looking for a way to adapt its expertise for the commercial market and found the demand for more realistic entertainment was on the rise.

This multi-million dollar game features six arms that extend from and rotate around a central hub. At the end of each arm, six capsules holding two participants move independently, pitching forward and back and rolling side to side to simulate movement in direct response to the driver's hand and foot commands from inside the capsule. Four more arms will be added in January.

The sustained G-forces created by the constant rotation of the arms and the independent pitch, roll and yaw of each capsule create the physical illusion of actually performing acceleration, deceleration, dives, loops, banking turns and more at speeds of up to 200 mph.

One of the unique aspects of this game, and the idea behind its name, is its wide range of motion-based themes, limited only by imagination.

Chameleon can be programmed to simulate any adventure. The first adventure guests will experience on Chameleon is Labyrinth Rangers, a futuristic space game where participants must battle evil Graak forces to save the universe.

Other games that will be installed periodically during the season to give guests a different experience include Lazer Drive and Mercs.

During LazerDrive, guests must navigate a treacherous track with splits, tunnels and barricades, while weaving through a crowd of crazed contenders at speeds up to 200 mph.

Mercs is a new jet aircraft game that calls on only the best shooting and flying skills to become part of an elite mercenary team.
